

Colleen Clark, M.S.W. has served as a CWS/CMS and Team Decision Making specialist at the Resource Center for Family-Focused Practice for the past five years. She brings more than 18 years' experience served in a variety of roles within child welfare, including child protection social worker, program analyst, research analyst, and child welfare services trainer. She currently works as a research data analyst for the Efforts to Outcomes (ETO®) Self-Evaluation Program which builds capacity for the collection of "gap" data not tracked in the current CWS/CMS system. Clark is passionate about family centered practice and opportunities where meaningful connections can be made between practice and data with the goal of improved outcomes and experiences for children, youth, and families.
