

Mark Elliott is a deputy chief probation officer, overseeing Adult Probation and Juvenile Probation Field and Court Services. He has worked in juvenile probation since 1993 as a juvenile detention officer, deputy probation officer, and an administrator of Juvenile Hall Operations and the Training and Backgrounds Unit. Elliott collaborates with mental health professionals, Child Protective Services, school districts, community based organizations, the San Joaquin County Office of Education, and local police agencies. His areas of expertise include all aspects of juvenile probation practice, particularly juvenile assessment, out-of-home placement, Title IV-E, and working with high-risk youth; as well as working with adult/AB 109 services including assessment, supervision, and the practices of evidence-based programing. Elliott is a member of the Probation Advisory Committee of the Resource Center for Family-Focused Practice.