

Misty Kerrigan is director of community-based services/Wraparound for a Level 12 residential, educational, and therapeutic treatment center serving children and youth with varied psychological, social, emotional, behavioral, medical, and neurological issues. She also oversees the organization's independent living skills program for foster youth. Kerrigan has worked with at-risk children and their families since 2001. Her focus is on creating innovative programs and training supported by evidence-based practices, to foster an organizational culture of personal responsibility, accountability, and commitment to the children they serve.