

Aaron Zaima, M.S.W., has served as director of residentially based services and Wraparound, for a premium residential care provider in Southern California. Zaima's wealth of experience also includes serving as a designated instructional service counselor and as a residential social worker/therapist. Since 2007, he has worked with county and state officials to develop and implement a contract for a statewide pilot aimed at transforming residential care. His focus is on continuing improvements to child services in California, serving on county and state committees and delivering presentations at national American Association of Residential Centers conferences.